Vitamin D

The importance of Vitamin D

The daily recommended intake of Vitamin D for an adult between November and March is currently 1500IU-2000IU, which is ten times more than the 200IU amount recommended by experts in 2012.

Consequences of Vitamin D deficiency

Results from a leading survey revealed that nine out of ten people have vitamin deficiency, causing experts to become increasingly committed to tackling the problem. We at Biocom are longstanding advocates of this case, which has now been verified by highly regarded specialist surveys. It is more important than ever to take these recommendations seriously, but rest-assured that the key to this is in our hands (more specifically, in our stock) and available in a tasty, chewy form.

Supplementation throughout the year

Supplements are especially necessary from October onwards when Vitamin D reserves from the summer become drained (this can happen in just six weeks). Consequently, our Vitamin D levels can fall dangerously low during the autumn months, which can lead to serious health risks by the end of October to November. Vitamin D is also a vital hormonal substance that plays an important role in cell development. As such, deficiency may raise the risk of cardiovascular conditions and immune system deficiency, or even osteoporosis, diabetes, blood disease and tumours.

Due to its importance in cell development, it is crucial to maintain normal Vitamin D levels in children who are unable to receive enough Vitamin D, because of the unavoidable use of strong sun creams, for example. Equally, many children do not consume enough Vitamin D rich food during the winter months, making supplementation vital throughout the year.

Our Vitamin D

product also contains Coral Calcium with D3, which includes 1000mg of coral powder from Okinawa, Japan, in 120 capsules.

The Amazing Algae Detoxification:

- nourishment
- defence
- revitalization

In need of a total body detox? This product provides a trifold effect that combines cleansing, nourishment and cell protection, as well as containing close to 4000 vital nutrients and Astaxanthin - one of the most powerful antioxidants in the world.

This is 50 times more powerful than Beta Carotene, 60 times more so than Vitamin C and 550 times more than Vitamin E. Immune Supreme's unique microalgae content boosts the immune system and encourages the body's self-healing processes. (Alga has contributed to spectacular healing, even from chronic conditions, and is not known to have any side effects to microalgae).

Wholesome food Algae is the earliest life form on Earth, having existed for approximately three billion years. This gift from nature is likely to be the most wholesome food of the twenty-first century, where our increasingly unnatural world makes essential minerals and trace elements hard to find.

Immune Supreme contains Chlorella vulgaris, Spirulina platensis, Haematococcus pluvialis (alga from the Red-Sea) and lithotamnium calcereum, which is in perfect ratio to the 4000 nutrients the body needs. This includes all natural vitamins, mineral substances, trace elements, enzymes, nucleic acids, chlorophyll, amino acids, fatty acids, special phytonutrients, antioxidants and Q10 (like co-enzymes).

The Aztecs and Maya Indians also traditionally complimented their meals with large amounts of the phytonutrients found in microalgae, of which they called "gifts from the Gods".

Some of the benefits may include:

- Boosting the immune system
- Significantly improving health
- Increasing energy levels and stamina
- Excellent source of nutrients
- Regenerating cells
- Easing inflammation and reducing fever or pain
- The healing of viral, bacterial and fungal infections
- It is thought it can also help with:
 - the management of asthma
 - treating symptoms of reflux, heartburn and constipation
 - Complimenting medicine for Type II diabetes and high cholesterol
 - high blood pressure and digestion

IMMUN SUPREME
240 Capsule

The Japanese understand this very well... as they consume more than 30kg of algae per person, per year. Their remarkably high life expectancy is often attributed to this diet, with certain medical conditions rarely occurring in Japan compared to elsewhere in the world.

Krill Oil

the new generation of Omega 3 fatty acids

Do you know what Krill is?

'Krill' is the Norwegian word for 'whale food'. These are tiny shrimp that swim in huge swarms, mainly found in Antarctica. Integral to the food chain, they solely feed on phytoplankton, leaving them free of all kinds of heavy metals and chemical fertilizers compared to most other type of fish.

So what about Krill Oil?

Krill Oil is regarded the best source of Omega 3. Omega 3 deficiency is even more harmful than a low fibre diet and is the main cause of societal damage spreading across the world. Omega 3 fatty acids, derived from fish oil, are the most popular and widely sold supplement due to their varied therapeutic and health benefits. However, studies comparing Krill Oil to classic fish oil have been triumphant for Krill Oil, with the possibility of it replacing classic fish oil in the future.

Anti-oxidative protection

Further to this, Krill Oil possesses many special qualities that allow for wider therapeutic use.

The combination of antioxidants with Omega 3 fatty acids infiltrates every new cell membrane, protecting them from the free radicals that cause premature cell death. The cell membrane's anti-oxidative protection (thanks to Krill oil), increases its stability in the event of an aggressive attack from free radicals, helping to provide cancer protection, anti-aging and protection of arteries. (UV exposure, smoking, stress, drugs and chronic illnesses can all lead to the formation of free radicals).

Because the body is able to absorb Krill Oil directly into the cell membranes, our livers are saved from the extra work of breaking down the oil, while it also is thought to have an all-round beautifying effect. There is evidence to suggest that Krill Oil may also support the heart and vascular system by inhibiting blood clot formation and vascular inflammatory diseases, as well as helping to prevent heart attacks by regulating heart rhythm.

Finally, odourless Krill Oil is much easier to take than fish oil. Although ideally taken with breakfast, these capsules are possible to take during the day, with no need to worry about 'fishy burps'.

Coenzyme Q10

Coenzyme Q10 molecule (ubiquinone), was discovered in 1957 and Nobel-prizes were awarded for the research in this area. It is proved to have a role in maintaining good energy levels also to reduce oxidative stress (formation of free radicals) by its general anti-oxidative effects. Do we wonder it is more and more popular?

Rejuvenation

Amounts of coenzyme Q10 is naturally decreased in the body with aging. There is a presumption that Q10 may be one of the components of recipe to stay young therefore it is strongly recommended to supplement as we get older.

Important

Q10 supplementation does not prohibit endogenic ubiquinone production.

Q Vital for the heart and circulation

- It may decrease the likelihood of heart attack by strengthening the heart
- It is beneficial during treatment and aftercare
- It may boost circulation and reduces high blood pressure
- Regenerates the tired body and healthy energy levels are achieved.

If there is a deficiency....

Levels of Q10 in the body varies individually and dropping levels may cause serious symptoms and conditions:

- In benign cases, chronic fatigue
- In more serious cases, it may be the cause of cardiovascular diseases
- Q10 supplementation may reverse cardiac muscle tissue disorders that is a natural consequence of decreased Q10 production due to aging.

Did you know?

That Q10 can play a significant role in prevention of heart conditions because arteriosclerosis as a risk factor is a main cause of cardiovascular diseases. Heart attack and stroke and many serious vascular problems are caused by oxidised deposits on the internal walls of the blood vessel. Q10 with its anti-oxidant qualities reduces these risks.

Coral calcium for the health of our bones

One of the most essential mineral for the body is calcium that builds up the bones. It is called the nutriment of the 21st century that contributes to preserving health of the whole body as part of at least 200 physiological processes.

Unique properties, excellent absorption

Coral from Okinawa Island is a source of magnesium, boron, zinc and other trace elements that are essential for efficient calcium absorption. As a result, its ionised, organic calcium content is absorbed in only 20 mins after consumption. This function is supported by its vitamin D content. Namely, clinical investigations found that those who took calcium with vitamin D had much better bone density than those who only took calcium.

Coral and vitamin D

Coral calcium is an organic mineral complex with almost complete absorption. It contains calcium, vitamin D and magnesium (that we lose during stress so supplementation is important) in both separately or as a content of the coral powder.

Important to know, that calcium may

- Support healthy metabolism and electromagnetic processes in the cells
- Inhibit transmission of pain stimuli in nerve endings
- Have anti-oxidative properties
- Speed up regeneration, slow down ageing and reduce the number of cancer cells
- Its deficiency may have a role in the onset of pre-menstrual syndrome symptoms
- Be indispensable for healthy muscle functions
- Have a role in healthy heart functions

According to certain studies coral powder may bring quick relief in numerous chronic conditions. It may be beneficial in the treatment of osteoporosis, high blood pressure, high cholesterol and diabetes in a few months. It also helps to absorb more nutrients from the bowels.

Vitamin C

One of the most important vitamins

Vitamin C is one of the most important vitamins to strengthen the immune system. Especially due to its antioxidant properties it is the main foundation of good health. Vitamin C was discovered by the Nobel prize winner scientist Albert Szent-Gyorgyi. Its benefits for colds have been widely researched and it is known that vitamin C is essential to prevent and treat scurvy.

Good to know that vitamin C

- Is an antioxidant
- Supports healthy skin
- Makes the body resistant to infections
- May be an effective pain relief for example in the management of arthritis
- Is extremely important for the immune system and healthy nerve functions
- Also important in hormone synthesis and maintaining good energy levels
- Furthermore for skin and bone health
- Last but not least it aids iron absorption

Also, it may

- Protect the gum and teeth
- Have a key role in healthy metabolism
- Have a very important role in the formation of capillaries, bones, cartilage and tendons.

Its deficiency may cause bleeding, gum disease, bone and muscle pain, anaemia and infections. Especially recommended for smokers, expectant mothers, during ill-health and during exercise to maintain antioxidative protection.

How much to take?

Official recommendations still suggest 60mg daily. However, according to some publications Albert Szent-Gyorgyi took minimum 1000mg daily, even 8-9000mg when he was ill but there are other scientists who took a minimum amount of 10,000mg per day. They all lived 90+ years. It is recommended to divide the daily dose for better absorption, however, excess will be eliminated through urine.

Do you fancy a delicious drink?

Biocom's vitamin C is particularly tasty in the form of a drinking powder.

MSM C Drinking powder

Real lemonade

- Contains organic binding sulphur that has an important role in formation of cells and due to its anti-inflammatory properties, it is widely used for centuries
- Half a spoon contains 2,000mg vitamin C!

- GI index and calorie content is 0
- Its tiny granules absorb easily
- Pleasant, healthy drink in seconds
- L-ascorbic acid as opposed to the widely used and less effective "plain" ascorbic acid

How do you prevent heart disease?

You are only as old as your arteries – according to the saying.

It is well-known that cardiovascular diseases are the number 1 cause of death together with cancer. At 40 years of age every two men out of three and every second woman has a chance of developing cardiovascular disease. In some countries risk of death is 45% higher than the European average. Healthy lifestyle is key in its prevention.

As follows, we will show you the benefits of one of our products that has already proved its benefits.

Circuline

A product for healthy veins and boosting circulation

The health and elasticity of the walls of blood vessels greatly affects our life because aortic stenosis and arteriosclerosis can be a cause of many illnesses. With the short recommendation of three of our products we indicated that Biocom is aware of the failing statistics in disease and the situation. One Biocom product is particularly important here, we tell you why...

Do you know...

That constant stress, malnutrition and excessive carbs, acidification and sedentary lifestyle does not serve our arteries. Hands on heart (hopefully as fit as a fiddle) do you do everything you can to prevent disease?

Calcifying, narrowing

Arteries transport O₂ and nutrients to the cells, tissues- if they are flexible, they are strong. Fats, calcium, platelets are deposited on the choroid (walls) that clog up walls of the arteries making them rigid. Furthermore, putting extra pressure on organs, raising blood pressure and decreasing blood flow to the organs. Full occlusion leads to heart attack/ischemia of the heart. Circuline supplementation is widely recommended for anyone over 25 for prevention, but especially for those with weak circulation or heart troubles. 2-3 months supplementation is recommended together with Q10 products. (Essential to seek individual advice from your GP if you are taking any medicines for your heart).

Main ingredients are Niacin (vitamin B3) and ginger root extract, also the following:

- Mayflower extract: beneficial for heart muscle and coronary arteries, provides more blood supply to them and improves tolerance for oxygen deficiency, may improve the health of the arteries.
- Butcher's broom: tonic for veins, may reduce permeability of arteries.
- L-Arginine: reduces high blood pressure, boosts circulation.
- Cayenne pepper: increasing blood flow, regulates blood pressure, stimulates circulation.
- Dismoin – venotonic flavonoid, strengthens capillaries.
- Horse chestnut: it has a beneficial effect on arteries, strengthens wall of the blood vessels, prevents thrombosis.

biocom.network/webshop

Gut flora and digestion

That may be closely related to each other. Have you ever over-eaten? Have you ever taken antibiotics? What about the importance of strengthening your immune system? The foundations of a strong immune system lie in healthy gut flora and bowels. We are happy to offer you three products, all of which have the same properties: they are strongly recommended by naturopaths - keep them in your medicinal cabinet.

“Good” bacteria?

Absolutely! Millions of bacteria live in our bodies. Thanks to good bacteria, we are able to digest food, produce some vitamins and protect ourselves from infections.

Role of enzymes

Enzymes free up vitamins, minerals and amino acids from food. These are essential for a healthy body but sadly we do not consume them often enough. For example green vegetables, fruit and raw food all contain a great amount of vitamins, minerals and amino acids. However, we kill these by cooking, steaming or baking...

Enzyme deficiency

Severe deficiency may lead to serious digestive issues and complaints leading to illness. Flatulence, diarrhea and constipation, later weight loss, weakness and immune system problems that lead to chronic ill health. Dreadful! Not only that, it also has a role in getting old too early...
